Re: RSB Group

To Whom It May Concern,

Each month our company conducts multiple maritime security operations across international waters, particularly through the High Risk Area of the Indian Ocean. Having been operational for three years, we have made contact with a large number of agents and providers within the Private Military Security Contractors' industry.

As most of the personnel involved in these PMSCs hail from services backgrounds, they are largely honourable people with sound ethics. Sadly however, some contacts occasionally some prove otherwise. For this reason we have been very careful in selecting agents and joint venture partners with whom we cooperate.

During the past two years we have found a very reliable partner in RSB Group of Moscow, Russia. We have conducted several joint operations, and RSB Group's performance has been exemplary on all occasions. Their organisation always delivers high standards on operational tasks, and their commercial arm is without fault.

We would gladly work with RSB Group again in future, and I warmly recommend Mr Oleg Krinitsyn and his organisation to any prospective client, agent or provider.

Yours Faithfully,

Brian E Sloan
